Midway

Midway has been termed "America's Little Switzerland." Nestled at the base of the towering Mt. Timpanogos, the setting for the community has many of the physical aspects of Switzerland, including beautiful white snow and bright winter sun. Because of this picturesque setting Midway developed a swiss theme in many of its early architectural structures. The theme continues today in the new homes which now dot the mountainside of this lovely community.

This area is an ancient geyser basin with pots, cones, and warm springs. Two major resorts use these warm mineral springs to advantage for swimming and health baths.

Swiss Days Deemed Successful Event

Dark-haired Judy Zenger, 15, won the "Swiss Miss 1963" title on Saturday at Midway.

Petite blonde Jeanne Pope, 17, was judged first attendant and vivacious Doreen Pugh, 15, second attendant.

The three will reign over all the Midway events for the next year.

"All these girls are lovely, wholesome, and of Swiss ancestry," said Mrs. Lethe Tatge in presenting the candidates.

Held at noon in the town hall, the contest was preceded by a musical program furnished by Darrell Conrad and his students of the University Music Studio, Provo.

Three out-of-town judges selected the girls from a field of eight contestants. Other participants were Kay Hendricksen, Mrs. Kohler, Carolyn Gertsch, Rayon, and Carolyn North. All on Midway.

The final day of festivities began at 5 a. m. with a sunrise salute followed by a chuck-wagon breakfast. A parade at 10 a. m. was followed by a carnival and Swiss market in the town square. There was also a flower show and an art display.

Doing a "land office size" business at the market were Herr Tuotte and Nephew, Nephi Probst's wurscht, Karmen Kohler's bratzels, Frau Gertsch's gucci, as furnished by Leland Ivers, and fancy goods baked by Midway's First and Second Ward Relief Societies, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Yodeler Arthur Brogli will perform at celebration.

Big day for the Swiss

The Salt Lake Swiss Chorus Edelweiss will celebrate Swiss Independence Day with a program of native music, in Sugarhouse Park, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Arthur Brogli, famous yodeling and recording star, will be the top attraction on the program, which will be held at the Lake Terrace.

The Edelweiss Chorus has performed for almost 45 years throughout the Mountain West. Arthur Feurer is music director, and Max Zimmer is president.

The Swiss will be celebrating 687 years of continuous independence, which began when a band of freedom-loving herdsmen, farmers and artisans threw off the yoke of rulers of the German Emperor.

Switzerland is the oldest democracy in the world continuously in existence, and the country holds the longest record of continuous peace for its citizens.

The Swiss enjoy one of the highest living standards in the world; and their charitable contributions to suffering mankind are internationally known, notably through the International Red Cross, founded and administered by Swiss in Switzerland.
